Assumed Prior Knowledge

Component	Details
Prior Knowledge	Learners can read short texts and identify familiar words. Learners know personal names, places and common classroom vocabulary.

Classroom Management Plan

Component	Details
Classroom Management	Learners sit in groups of four. The teacher gives clear instructions, monitors all groups and encourages participation from every learner. Additional support is provided to learners who need assistance.

Lesson Procedure

STAGE 1: Setting the Scene, Presentation and Guided Support (12 Minutes)

Component	Details
Stage Aim	To activate learners' prior knowledge, introduce the reading text and help learners discover words beginning with capital letters.
Teacher Activity	The teacher greets the learners warmly and displays a colourful birthday picture. The teacher asks simple questions such as

	“Who likes birthdays?”, “When is your birthday?” and “What gifts do you like to receive?” The teacher introduces a girl named Poorni and explains that learners are going to read a short text about her birthday. Learners are asked to open their Pupil’s Books and observe the text. The teacher reads the text aloud with correct pronunciation and expression while learners follow silently. After reading, the teacher asks learners whether they noticed anything special about some words in the text. One example is highlighted and learners are encouraged to identify other words beginning with capital letters. The teacher writes learners’ responses on the board and asks guiding questions such as “Do all words begin with capital letters?”, “Why is Poorni written differently from birthday?” and “Why do you think December begins with a capital letter?”
Learner Activity	Learners observe the picture, answer questions, read the text, listen to the teacher and identify words beginning with capital letters. Learners discuss possible reasons for the use of capital letters.
Support for slow learners	Learners who need support may first identify one capital-letter word. The teacher provides prompts, visual support and peer assistance. Sinhala may be used briefly if meaning is unclear.
Interaction	T ↔ Ss / T ↔ Groups / T ↔ Individual Ss
Materials	Birthday picture, Pupil’s Book, enlarged reading text, board and markers, Annex 1 & 2
ILOs	ILO 1, ILO 2, ILO 4
ICQs / Assessment	ICQs: Who is the text about? Can you identify a word beginning with a capital letter? Do all words begin with capital letters? Assessment for Learning: Teacher observes learners’ participation and identification skills.

STAGE 2: Guided Discovery and Categorization Activity (10 Minutes)

Component	Details
Stage Aim	To help learners discover capitalization rules through discussion and categorization.
Teacher Activity	The teacher distributes word cards containing words from the reading text such as Poorni, Nicoli, December, Wednesday, Christmas, Harry Potter, Madol Duwa and I. Category headings are displayed on the board: Names of People, Months, Days, Festivals, Book Titles and Pronoun I. Learners are guided to discuss and place the cards under the correct category. The teacher moves around the classroom, asks guiding questions and encourages learners to justify their answers. The capitalization rules are elicited from learners rather than explained directly.
Learner Activity	Learners work collaboratively in groups, classify words and explain their choices using examples from the text.
Support for Learners	Sentence prompts and peer support are provided. The teacher asks scaffolded questions when necessary.
Interaction	Ss ↔ Ss / Group Work / Teacher Monitors
Materials	Word cards, categorisation chart, board
ILOs	ILO 2, ILO 3, ILO 4
ICQs / Assessment	Why is Christmas written with a capital letter? Why do we write I with a capital letter? Assessment as Learning: Learners discuss and check answers with peers.

STAGE 3: Production / Independent Writing and Speaking (12 minutes)

Component	Details
Stage Aim	To provide opportunities for learners to apply capitalization rules independently in meaningful writing.
Teacher Activity	The teacher asks learners to write five sentences about themselves using correct capital letters. Learners are encouraged to include their name, favourite day, favourite book, birthday month and a place. The teacher writes one model sentence on the board and reminds learners to use capital letters accurately. The teacher monitors and supports learners. After writing, learners exchange books with a partner and use a checklist to check capitalization. Selected learners read their sentences aloud and receive feedback.

Learner Activity	Learners write sentences independently, exchange books with partners, check capitalization using the checklist and share their work with the class.
Support for Learners	Sentence starters and examples remain displayed on the board. Learners may refer to the categorisation chart.

"today is wednesday." "i like harry potter." The teacher discusses answers and clarifies misconceptions.

Teacher Reflection

Component	Details
Reflection	Pre-teaching Reflection I expect this lesson to help students recognise the importance of using capital letters correctly in everyday writing. I have planned learner-centred activities such as guided discovery, group discussion and independent writing to encourage active participation and meaningful learning. I will provide additional support to learners who need help identifying capitalization rules. By the end of the lesson, I hope students will be able to use capital letters accurately and confidently in their own writing.

	Post-teaching Reflection Most learners actively participated in identifying and classifying words beginning with capital letters. Analysis: The guided discovery approach enabled learners to notice capitalization patterns independently rather than memorising rules. The authentic reading text provided meaningful context and increased learner engagement. Professional Learning: I learned that learners develop a deeper understanding of writing conventions when they discover patterns through meaningful tasks and collaborative discussion. Future Action: In future lessons, I will provide additional editing and proofreading activities to strengthen learners' independent use of capitalization and further develop self-assessment skills.
